SATURDAY EVENING

OCTOBER 7, 1916

WOODROW WILSON,
President of the United States, voted for woman suffrage in New Jersey in 1915

CHARLES E. HUGHES,
one-time Governor of New York, and Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, has not voted at all since 1910

THE BEST

Did you fall in the race?
Did you faint in the sport?
Where the hot dust choked and burned?
Did you breast the tape midst the flying dirt
That the leader's spikes had spurned?
Did you do your best—
Oh, I know that you lost, I know that your time was bad.
But the game is not in the winning, lad,
The best of it since the beginning, lad,
Is in taking your licking and grinning, lad,
If you gave them the best you had.
Did your tackle fall short?
Did the runner flash by
With the score that won the game?
Did it break your heart when you missed the try?
Did you choke with the hurt and shame?
If you did your best—
Oh, I know the score; I followed you all the way through.
And that is why I am saying, lad,
That the best of the fight is the staying, lad,
And the best of all games is the playing, lad,
If you give them the best in you.

GOLD "PEACE TRUST" TO END WORLD WAR

Dr. Oscar Busch, a Swiss international lawyer of note, has a most ingenious suggestion for securing permanent peace in the world after this war. He would have every nation deposit a big amount of gold in an international fund, this bond to be forfeited by a government breaking the peace. Dr. Busch states:

"One of the principal obstacles which prevent an early peace is the fact that the faith in the binding power of international treaties has been badly shaken during the present war.

"All of the belligerent nations have treated the existing treaties as scraps of paper and they know that new international agreements will be broken without a moment's hesitation as soon as they conflict with the interests and aspirations of one nation or another.

"The 'peace trust' is not an idle dream, but a very practical proposition to bring the world out of the present maelstrom of slaughter and destruction."

TELLING WOMEN HOW TO VOTE

At a time when women may vote for president in twelve states there can be no possible objection to the Hughes Women's campaign train, says the New York World. It embraces every luxury of railroading. It carries many seasoned feminine orators. It is financed by some of the wealthiest women in the world; not all of them dissociated from men who might hesitate to start on a like expedition, fearing publicity.

What is remarkable about the enterprise is that it is paid for, managed and in most of its aspects represented chiefly by eastern women who never have voted and, as some people think, are never likely to vote. By this means Fifth Avenue, Newport, Riverside Drive, Rittenhouse Square, the Berkshires and the Orange Mountains hope to diffuse among the voting women of Wyoming, Colorado, Utah, Idaho, Washington, California, Arizona, Kansas, Oregon, Nevada, Montana and Illinois such evidences of eastern opinion fashion and culture, to say nothing of prejudice, as will necessarily result in the defeat of Woodrow Wilson.

The mission is perfectly legitimate and it may be wonderfully successful, but it is to be remembered that it is to address itself to women who have been voting for a long time who have learned the ropes, who have seen money cleverly used in campaigns before, and who as plain Americans are likely to resent anything savoring of tutelage, condescension or patronage, especially by eminent personages from the east who cannot vote.

WHAT WILSON HAS DONE

Miss Ida Tarbell says Mr. Wilson is our greatest progressive and has proved his fitness to lead the cause of progressive civilization.

"Life" says, "Miss Tarbell is right." Incidentally, "Life" says some nice things about Mr. Wilson right off its own bat. Its editorial in part follows:

"Miss Ida Tarbell has come out for Wilson, and Gifford Pinchot has come out against him. A gain for Wilson both ways.

"The truth is that Mr. Wilson comes more and more under suspicion of being the greatest American progressive since Thomas Jefferson. Jefferson was an exceedingly clever man, especially in the use of language, and he was out to beat the rich. Mr. Wilson gives more and more the impression of being out on the same errand. Whenever there comes a choice of courses, as lately in the threatened railroad strike, he shows himself the same man who was president of Princeton, and at outs with most of the nobility and gentry on his board of trustees. He is an astute, formidable person, driven all the time by an innate and sleepless indisposition to knuckle down to the power of money or any one that stands on it.

"The rich, as representatives of the vested interests, are always and instinctively obstacles to political progress. They are beneficiaries of the existing order and don't want it all muddled up. Also they have a say about the conduct of life and the management of affairs, and they don't want to lose it. The only power that can stand up against theirs and keep their grip on the human windpipe reasonably loose is the power of the people. Accordingly, ambitious spirits are always reaching out to grasp and use the power of the people."

LITTER IN THE BRAIN AS WELL AS IN THE GUTTER

The individual needs to have the litter removed from the mind as the city needs litter removed from streets and parks.

What is mental litter? It is various—for instance:

Slang is litter of the mind. It clutters up the avenues of thought, hampers clear expression, indicates laziness in the brain, just as gutter litter indicates carelessness.

Clear your mind of slang and you are getting rid of mental refuse that is bad for the brain.

Slovenly thought is litter. You have a brain that can concentrate and deal with problems. If you let it wander along in slovenly fashion, that is litter, obstruction, decay.

Gossip, meaningless twaddle, are litter in the mind. You hear young people going to their work, and these are words repeated a million times: "He said to me, I said to him, she said to her, he said to them." And so on forever and ever. Endless, meaningless repetition of what somebody else said is mental rubbish.

Trashy books, aimless reading—they are rubbish in the brain, and 90 per cent of all brains are filled with them—among the brains that read at all. Wealth beyond conception accumulated in the public libraries lies unused and rusting, while litter and rubbish are called for and stored away in the minds of readers. A pity and a disgrace!—Los Angeles Herald.

COLORADO PROGRESSIVE LEADER FOR WILSON

Edward P. Costigan, for four years a leader of the Progressive party in Colorado and twice its candidate for governor, has issued a statement pledging his support to Woodrow Wilson on the ground that "the public welfare will be best safeguarded in 1916 by a national Democratic victory under the present forward-looking leadership."

"There are many Progressives," he says, "who feel that the present national administration should have dealt more firmly and skillfully with riotous chaos in Mexico and, with a world in arms; yet, we decline to follow the political critics who fail to take account of the responsible burdens of the present administration, and who, with the manifest purpose of riding into office, without declaring whether their own policy is definitely for war, pour wholesale condemnation on an administration which, when the scales were evenly balanced, threw the weight of its influence for peace rather than aggression.

"Had the course openly or impliedly sanctioned by Republican leaders been pursued, we might now be needless partisans in the strife of Europe, and the soil of the south would be freshly reddened and fertilized by the blood and bodies of countless American boys who would have sacrificed all following our flag through flaming fields to vanquished heights.

"Speaking as a Progressive onlooker, contrasting the rank and file of Republicans and Democrats, I find justification in the apparent circumstance that at this time the greater proportion, though by no means all, of course, of what Lincoln called the plain people of this country are to be found in the Democratic party."

THE CANDIDATES AS CAMPAIGNERS

Wilson has two first-class advantages over Hughes; he is a better speaker and he has the better side of the argument.—Memphis Commercial Appeal.
